The opening of the exhibition at 4 pm on Saturday will be a "public event", according to Mr Zylla.

He will supply paint and invite people present to change nine of his drawings in any way they wish.

UNFINISHED

"It's like telling an unfinished story. My drawings are the beginning. I will be asking the public to continue the story. As an artist I cannot close my ears to the people's suffering," he said.

The exhibition will be open for viewing until June 26, from 10 am to 6 pm daily.
