CONTENTS

5 Editorial – Mario Pissarra

8 Organising: collectives as a social infrastructure response to historical physical arts infrastructure in Southern Africa - Molemo Moiloa, with the Visual Arts Network of South Africa

26 Reclaiming history and agency: reflections on the role of artists collectives in Harare - Fadzai Muchemwa

33 The Community Arts Project: legacies and limitations of an arts centre - Mario Pissarra

54 Synergising pedagogies and styles: the collaborative works of Nike Okundaye and Tola Wewe – Akande Abiodun and Akinwale Onipede

73 Agents in motion: how objects make people move. An interview with Sam Hopkins and Simon Rittmeier - Marian Nur Goni

84 'We are here because you were there': Afropean identity as decoloniality - Alanna Lockward, with Rosana Sancin

86 Comparative readings of seriti in the art of Pemba, Sekoto, Xaba and Mthethwa - Kolodi Senong
Founding editor
Rasheed Araeen

Editors
Mario Pissarra (ASAI)
Fiona Mauchan (ASAI)

Design
Donovan Ward (ASAI)

Cover photograph
Village Unhu, Harare (courtesy VANSA)

Editorial Board
Alda Costa (Universidade Eduardo Mondlane, Maputo, Mozambique)
Christine Eyene (University of Central Lancashire, UK)
Nomusa Makhubu (University of Cape Town & ASAI, South Africa)
Okello Ogwang (Makerere University, Uganda)
Lize van Robbroeck (University of Stellenbosch & ASAI, South Africa)

Advisory Council
Awam Amkpa (New York University, USA)
Rayda Becker (Cape Town, South Africa)
Raphael Chikukwa (National Gallery of Zimbabwe, Harare)
Roberto Conduru (Southern Methodist University, Dallas, USA)
Angelo Kakande (Makerere University, Kampala, Uganda)
Namuburu Rose Kirumira (Makerere University, Kampala, Uganda)
Abdellah Karrour (L’Appartement 22, Rabat, Morocco)
Yacouba Konate (University of Abidjan, Ivory Coast)
Kwame Labi (University of Ghana, Accra)
Neo Matome (University of Botswana, Gaborone)
William Bwalya Miko (Lusaka, Zambia)
Nicholas Mirzoeff (New York University, USA)
Barbara Murray (London, UK)
Anitra Nettleton (Wits University, South Africa)
Jacqueline Nolte (University of the Fraser Valley, Vancouver, Canada)
CONTRIBUTORS

Akande Abiodun is a lecturer at the University of Lagos, Nigeria. His current research focuses on knowledge systems in the art and cultural practices of indigenous communities in Africa. His recent publications include, “Commonalities and disparities in the iconography of Opón Ifá and Ìróké Ifá in Òyó, Sàbe, and Ìfẹ-Àna Yorùbá communities” (African Arts, 52 no. 3, 2020) and “Ará ọrùn kin-in kin-in: Òyó-Yorùbá egúngún masquerade in communion and maintenance of ontological balance,’ (Genealogy, 3 no. 1, 2019).

Sam Hopkins is an artist who is attentive to the way in which different media produce different truths. He has participated in a broad spectrum of local and international exhibitions and is currently working as an artist researcher at the Academy of Media Arts Cologne (KHM). Hopkins was named one of the 100 Leading Global Thinkers by Foreign Policy (FP) Magazine in 2014. He is a member of the International Inventories Programme, an international research and database project investigating a collection of Kenyan objects held in cultural institutions across the globe.

Alanna Lockward (1961–2019) was an author, curator and filmmaker based in Berlin and Santo Domingo. She was the founding director of Art Labour Archives, a platform for theory, political activism and art since 1996. Lockward conceptualized and curated the trans-disciplinary meeting BE.BOP. Research professor at the Pontificia Universidad Católica Madre y Maestra (PUCMM), Lockward is well known for her work in developing the theory of decolonial aesthetics.

Molemo Moiloa lives and works in Johannesburg, and has worked in various capacities at the intersection of creative practice and community organising. Her academic work has focused on the political subjectivities of South African youth. She is also one half of the artist collaborative MADEYOULOOK, who explore everyday popular imaginaries and their modalities for knowledge production. A former director of the Visual Arts Network of South Africa (VANSA), Moiloa subsequently developed the toolkit entitled Organising, for VANSA.

Fadzai Veronica Muchemwa is a researcher, writer and curator working in Harare, Zimbabwe. She is a member of the curatorial collective Practice Theory; and collaborator for Independent Curators International and the Zimbabwe Pavilion at the Venice Biennale. Muchemwa co-curated Culture in communities; Jazzified: expressions of protest; Moulding a nation: the history of the ceramics collection of the National Gallery of Zimbabwe, all for the NGZ (2016–19). Muchemwa also curated The unseen: creatures of myth and legend, an exhibition by Isaac Kalambata (Lusaka National Museum, 2018), and was visiting curator at the Bag Factory Artists’ Studios in Johannesburg (2019).

Akinwale Onipede is an artist and art historian. He lectures in the Department of Creative Arts, University of Lagos, Nigeria. He is well exhibited and published.
Mario Pissarra is an art historian and founder and director of the Africa South Art Initiative (ASAI). His publication credits include editor-in-chief of the four-volume set Visual century: South African art in context, 1907–2007 (Wits University Press, 2011, vol); editor of Awakenings: the art of Lionel Davis (ASAI, 2017); and author of Against the grain: sculptors from the Cape (ASAI, 2013). Pissarra is currently conducting postdoctoral research on Malangatana at the University of Stellenbosch.

Simon Rittmeier is a filmmaker who studied visual arts and film at the Hochschule für Bildende Künste Hamburg and at the Academy of Media Arts Cologne. Through archival images and mass media he explores the power of moving images and their political impact and questions common historical narrations. Rittmeier is a member of the International Inventories Programme, an international research and database project investigating a collection of Kenyan objects held in cultural institutions across the globe.

Marian Nur Goni is an art historian whose work focuses principally on artistic and community-based practices that rework collections of historical objects and photographs in and from East Africa. She holds a PhD in art history from the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales (EHESS). Nur Goni is a member of the International Inventories Programme, an international research and database project investigating a collection of Kenyan objects held in cultural institutions across the globe.

Rosana Sancin is an artist, curator, researcher, film-programmer and writer with interest in radical Pan-Africanist legacies, non-Western epistemologies, marronage, liberation and healing.

Kolodi Senong is completing his PhD at the University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa. His dissertation is titled Darkness after light: the visual portrait of Lefifi Tladi. Senong is a practicing artist, art teacher and writer. Senong generally writes about South African art and artists who often find themselves relegated to the fringes of the popular discourse.

Visual Arts Network of South Africa (VANSA) operates as a support point and development agency for contemporary art practice in South Africa. They develop industry knowledge, resources, networks and projects that are concerned with realising new social, cultural and economic possibilities for contemporary art practice in the South African – and wider African – context.